

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A personalized health video system, method and apparatus which comprises: the components of; 5 a personal data collecting device, Internet enablement device, information system, video serving device, server operating system, user operating system, graphical creation device, viewing device, audio device, relationship generating device, script generating device, charts generating device, chart reviewing device, and video library device; the components arranged and interconnected and enabled in an operating personalized health video system.